CSC165H1 — Term Test 0

Date: 25 January 2021 Duration: 15 minutes

No Aids Allowed (except where indicated)

Submission Instructions

- Submit your work on MarkUs (<https://markus165.teach.cs.toronto.edu/csc165-2021-01>), under “Term Test 0”.
 - You may type your answers or hand-write them legibly.
 - You may submit your answers as a single document or as multiple documents.
 - You may name your file(s) any way you want (there is no “required file”).
 - You may submit your answers in PDF or in photos (JPEG/PNG/GIF), but NOT other formats. (In particular, Word documents cannot be accepted—please export to PDF before submitting.)

1. [1 mark] Aids Allowed.

Use the information provided on the Term Test 0 Details page on Quercus—particularly the section entitled “Aids Allowed”—to answer the following questions.

- (a) List every aid (source of information) that you will be allowed to use during all Term Tests (except this one).
- (b) List at least two sources of information that are NOT allowed.

a) - Own notes from lecture | Office hours | Lecture slides
| course text

b) Additional Textbooks | External reference material

2. [1 mark] Academic Integrity Statement.

On each Term Test, we will ask you to submit an Academic Integrity statement like the one below.

By signing this Statement, I attest to the fact that I, Frederick Menesia, 1006986781, have abided fully by the Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters. I have not committed academic misconduct and I am aware of the penalties that may be imposed if I have committed an academic offence.

Please write the statement above on a piece of paper and submit a photo of it—or type it up in a document and submit it as a PDF (in that case, you may type your name in place of your signature). Then keep this piece of paper or document so you can reuse it on future tests (saving you the step of having to write it out again). While you're at it, it might be a good idea to take the opportunity to find out about the Code of Behaviour!

Remember that the key purpose of each Term Test (except this one) is to assess your understanding of the course material. If your goal is to learn the material, because you understand that it will be useful in your future studies and work, then you should welcome the opportunity to find out how you are doing. This will provide you with essential feedback to help you improve your own learning.

In this context, we need to see what you can do. Otherwise, any feedback we provide will be meaningless and you will miss an opportunity to improve. For this reason, we expect you to answer the test questions using only the aids allowed and NOT to try to find answers by any means other than your own individual efforts. To support everyone who takes their learning seriously, we have put in place multiple mechanisms to make cheating difficult and incredibly risky on every Term Test.

- Randomized questions: different students will get different questions (except on Term Test 0).
- All-new questions whose answers cannot easily be searched for online—we checked!
- Limited time to submit answers.
- Academic Integrity reminders (the statement above).
- During marking, careful review of answers for unusual similarities between submissions and with materials found online.

If you were to commit an academic offence (submitting work that is not your own without a clear and explicit citation of your sources), in addition to any penalty imposed, you would NOT be allowed to withdraw from the course or to apply the Credit/No-Credit designation to the course. It is also likely that you would have a temporary annotation placed on your academic record and transcript, indicating that you have been sanctioned for academic misconduct. It is just not worth it! We know there is a lot of pressure to achieve good marks in this course, but your efforts are much better spent on understanding the course material and answering the questions for yourself.
